Wheels of GE Plan Start Grinding

Hundreds Turned Away in Record Enrollment at State

HIGHLIGHTS OF CURRENT EVENTS

By BILL DENNIS

(Editor's Note—Toni Robinson, member-at-large of the Board of Directors, has chosen this very interesting subject for the initial Highlights of the Fall term. Bill Dennis, regular author of the column, will be back on the job next week with his weekly roundup of "Highlights of Current Events.")

● In this November's election much of the voter's attention is drawn to the presidential campaign, but the Californian should attempt to review with particular attention the State constitutional amendment for the reapportionment of the California State Senate, which also will appear on the ballot.

At the present time the State Legislature follows the pattern of our national government with an upper and a lower house; the upper house being called the Senate and the lower house the Assembly. Also following our national pattern, the upper house's members are made up of a single representative from each district, while the lower house's representatives are in proportion to the population.

POPULOUS RULE

The new constitutional amendment calls for the method of selecting a Senate to be changed to a populous rule, thus placing the whole Legislature on a population basis.

About 40 years ago this plan was used in the Legislature, but was discarded because it gave too much power to the urban districts.

DIVISION OF SENATORS

Under the present system San Francisco County has one senator and Los Angeles County one, but with the change to the population system San Francisco County would elect five senators while Los Angeles would have 10. Furthermore, under the new system Los Angeles County with 10 senators, San Francisco County with five senators, Alameda County with four senators and San Diego County with two senators would control 21 of the 40 seats in the Senate.

In our national government it is the policy to give two senatorial seats to New York and two to Nevada as part of the check and balance system. In November you can decide at the polls if this is the plan you also want for the State of California.

New Land Okehed; Lake Merced Site Totals 92 Acres

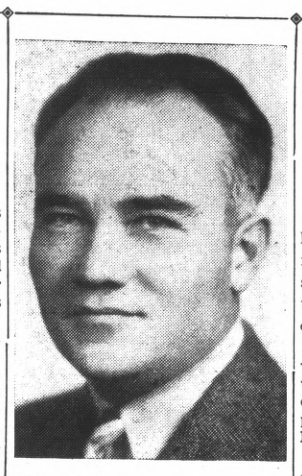
State Board of Public Works approved last week the compromise program for adding 36.8 acres of land to the new Lake Merced campus and appropriations for construction of four new buildings to cost approximately $2,810,000.

The addition of land, 10 acres from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, five acres from Stoneson Brothers, 19 acres from the City and County of San Francisco, and 2.5 acres from the Standard Development Corporation—gives State College approximately 92 acres for its campus.

Construction on the following buildings should begin within 60 days, according to President J. Paul Leonard: An $800,000 Science Building, $460,000 Fine Arts Building, $300,000 for ground utilities, and power house, shops and Physical Education Building for $1,250,000.

In addition the board approved preparation of plans for four more campus structures to cost approximately $2,200,000. They are: Music and Speech Buildings, Administration Building and Library.

All construction plans call for completion of the $12,500,000 streamlined educational plant by 1951, according to President Leonard. (See editorial, map and story, on Page 2.)



LEONARD:

'Lower Division Studies Designed'

San Francisco State College opens this year with the largest student enrollment in its history, and with our present crowded facilities we were not able to accept 500 more who wished to enter. To those of you who are to be here this year, we extend a most hearty welcome.

We begin this year with a new program of education, designed especially to meet the needs, interests and abilities of our students in the lower division. On the basis of this program, our special occupational fields will be built. Our faculty has worked for three years to organize and plan this program, and our freshmen class this year has the first opportunity to have experience with this new plan. It is a far superior program to any we have offered in the past, and we congratulate you freshmen on being the first class to take advantage of this opportunity.

To those of you who are entering in the upper classes, we are offering an improved program of specialization. Our course offerings are wider, and our fields of occupational study are more carefully planned. Along with the new students, we are welcoming 35 new faculty members who have been carefully selected to make the program of study at San Francisco State College a very superior one.

To all of you a most hearty welcome. My sincere hope is that you will find both the social and intellectual opportunities at the college the richest in your life.

J. PAUL LEONARD,
President of the College.

Registration Plans Told

Enrollment and payment of fees begins today and continues tomorrow, stated Florence Vance, registrar.

All new students should register tomorrow between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. They will follow this procedure:

1. Work out class program with a member of the faculty in the gym today or tomorrow.
2. On Friday, report to Anderson Hall for registration booklets to be distributed alphabetically.
3. Pick up class cards and go through the pay line in the gym.

Registration procedure for old students today is as follows:

1. Report to Room 207, Anderson Hall, located at the corner of Haight and Buchanan streets for registration booklets.
2. Proceed to the gym to pick up class cards at the "Pre-Program" table and pay fees. All essential program changes should be made before going through the pay line.

The administration has instituted a new policy of programming for all students, whereby faculty members will act as program advisors. Students will be assisted in planning their programs by a faculty member who is teaching in the department in which the student is majoring.

Those veterans under Public Law 346, 16 and the State bill proceed as follows:

1. Report to Room 207, Anderson Hall, to fill out registration booklets.
2. Fill out Form 7-52 in Room 125, Anderson Hall.
3. Proceed to the gym to pick up class cards.
4. Report to Hut 2 at once.
5. Vouchers for books and supplies can then be obtained in Annex A, Room 8.

Those who have attended another school under the G. I. Bill need a supplemental letter of eligibility. Vets who never have attended school under the G. I. Bill will need a letter of eligibility, which will be kept on file at the Veterans' Administration.

Students classified under a state compensation bill may see the state representative today in Hut No. 3.

Registration Hours

Registration hours for today and Friday are, according to alphabetical sequence, as follows:

From A to C, 9-10; D to G, 10-10:30; H to K, 10:30-11:30; L to N, 12:30-1:30; O to S, 1:30-2:30; T to Z, 2:30-3:00.

Student Physical Urged

Students who have received notices to take their physical examinations this semester are urged to do so as promptly as possible on the dates so designated for them.

Merced Bowl Gets Lights

With the installation of an arc lighting system at the new State campus at Lake Merced, all home games will be played at night. The lights will be installed in time for the first game of the Fall football season, with Whittier College on Friday, October 1, according to David J. Cox, director of physical education and recreation.

The lighting system will be located on three poles 80 feet high, with 12 powerful floodlights grouped on each pole.

This will be the second time that State has installed a lighting system for night football. In 1936 the former Recreation Park was leased by the college and a lighting system was installed by Dean Cox. The capacity crowds that attended the football games that season proved the success of the night games. Increased attendance is almost certain for the coming Fall season.

The present bleachers will hold 5000 spectators and the anticipated increased attendance has caused considerable worry over the seating facilities now available.

Precedent Set As Students Are Refused

For the first time in the 49-year history of State, applicants for enrollment are being refused admission, according to word received today from Walter Homan, dean of admissions.

The maximum of 3500 students was reached yesterday. This quota, necessary because of cramped quarters, resulted in over 500 applicants being turned down, Dean Homan stated.

Broken down, the latest official figures disclose that 600 of the total are freshmen; 2000 old students and the balance transfers and renewal applications. Nine hundred are veterans studying under the G. I. Bill.

Compared with last term's enrollment, this means an increase of more than one-third.

The majority of freshmen students are enrolled under the new General Education program.

In addition to the 3500 registered some 2000 part time students will enroll in the in-service education program.

These students will take courses in the daytime, evenings and Saturdays. They are engaged in business, teaching, recreation, social work and other occupations.

Designed to meet particular needs of California teachers seeking credentials, the courses are offered from Red Bluff to Modesto, with division headquarters at S. F. State.

Classes are held from 7 to 9 one evening a week. Major courses offered here are in English, history, music and education.

Frosh Attend Initial Rally

A full day's program, designed to acquaint new and transfer students with the facilities of the college, was presented Tuesday at the Baptist Church, under the chairmanship of Mary A. Ward, dean of women.

Beginning at 9 a.m., a program of general information was presented. Speakers included Dean Ward, John H. Cornehlsen Jr., dean of men; Earl Homan, president of the Associated Students; Hank Marschek ,treasurer; and student chairman of the orientation program, Phil Ryan, activities commissioner.

Activities were returned to the Baptist Church in the afternoon, where the plan of the newly formulated General Education Program was presented to the college. "Reasons Why We Have Prepared a General Education Program for San Francisco State, Beginning With the Class of '52," was the subject of an address by President J. Paul Leonard. P. F. Valentine, dean of general education, spoke on the contents of such a program, and Reginald Bell, dean of student personnel and guidance, showed how it would meet the needs of the incoming freshman.

At 11 o'clock activities were switched to the student lounge area, where luncheon was served and student officers were presented under the sponsorship of the Student Orientation Committee. At 12, a dance was presented in the Women's Gym. Music was provided by Rudy Salvini and his orchestra.

Remaining portion of the program was devoted to questions from the audience and details of class and group organization presented by the faculty.

Dances Scheduled For Fall Semester

Two free student body dances have been scheduled for this term by Phil Ryan, activities commissioner of Associated Students.

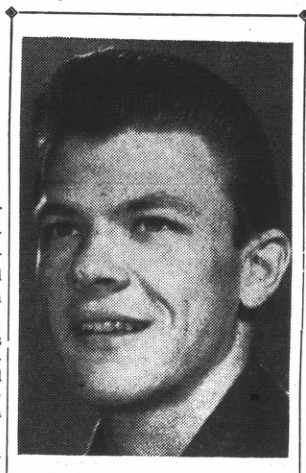
Explaining his plans before the Board of Directors last Tuesday, Ryan asked the board to approve Sept. 24 and December 17 for the events.

The first will be a "Hello Dance" in the gym next Friday night from 9 to midnight. Admission will be free to student body card holders. Coke will be sold.

The second dance will have a Christmas theme.

In addition to the dances, Ryan said he wanted to schedule several rallies but was having difficulty finding volunteer talent for entertainments.

The first rally of the semester will be Thursday, Sept. 30.



HOMAN:

'Social Calendar Filled This Term'

The toils of Summer jobs, the excitement of vacation spots and the general practices brought forth by the Summer season are rapidly drawing to a close. Once again the call of books, professors, football and dances rings loud and clear. It is into this environment that I welcome you.

The student body officers are ready to serve you in the many capacities demanded of them. I trust that our mutual co-operation will be directed toward mutual benefits for all. Your suggestions, helps, and participation in activities is urged. This is your school and your officers and we want to make it what you want it to be.

We are looking forward to a very active term. Lights have been installed at the new campus for our football field. We have four scheduled night games and anticipate a good season. We have a well-filled social calendar and offer much in the way of extra curricular activities.

So my welcome is not only in the form of universal greetings but also in the form of an invitation. This is an invitation to good learning, to active participation in college functions and to a well-blended adjustment of both.

Foundation Aides Guidance Project

A grant of $3000 has been given to the college by the Rosenberg Foundation, according to President J. Paul Leonard. The money is to be utilized to explore the possibilities of the use of motion pictures in connection with the guidance program of freshmen.

"We are attempting to determine how and in what ways we can use motion pictures to explain to freshmen the various jobs which are available throughout the world for college-trained people," stated Dr. Leonard.

If adopted, this program would be inaugurated in the second semester to help freshmen canvass the available vocational fields, and would supplement field trips.

Alvin Gordon, who served on the faculty last year and co-ordinated the activities of the Mexican students in audio-visual education has been assigned the responsibility of investigating the problem.

4054 Attend Sessions

A student increase of approximately 38 per cent was registered during the last Summer sessions. 4054 students attended State during the Summer, from 15 states and the Territory of Hawaii. The special education program alone had 350 in its workshop.

Seating Regulated In Co-op Revamp; New 20c Minimum

A new seating arrangement, designed to bring more paying customers into the cafeteria, goes into effect this week, it was announced by the store council. From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. only those persons making a minimum purchase of 20 cents or more will be able to claim seats in the cafeteria.

The move, adopted last semester when the cafeteria was revealed as incurring a $5000 deficit for the year 1947-1948, is a last-ditch effort to put the enterprise on a paying basis.

BLAME HIGH PRICES

Questioned on reasons for the deficit, Charles A. Roumasset, administrator of student affairs, stated the loss was due to increased food and labor costs.

"In comparison with rising prices on the outside, cafeteria price raises have been small, which means that the burden has been absorbed by the corporation and not by students using the cafeteria," Roumasset said.

"Another factor," he continued, "has been the lack of space to serve all students who wish to use the space as a lounge as well as a lunch room. Too often in the past students buying a meal during the noon hour have found all available space taken by card players or students eating lunches brought from home."

MORE MEASURES SLATED

Failure of the new program to lessen cafeteria losses, store council members added, would result in such alternatives as "drastic advances in prices, curtailment of service, or complete shutdown of all cafeteria operations."

Emphasizing that the new ruling was effective only from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., store cafeteria officials stated the Snack Bar will continue to operate with no minimum charges and additional seating facilities will be provided for those who bring their lunches.

Enough Vacation? More in Sight

For those who haven't had enough vacation and are looking forward to more holidays, here is a list of those scheduled for the Fall term:

Nov. 11 (Thursday—Armistice Day.
Nov. 17-19—Faculty adjourns to Asilomar.
Nov. 25-26—Thanksgiving holidays.
Dec. 20-Jan. 2—Christmas holidays.

Editorial Posts Open on Gater

Four editorial positions are open on the Golden Gater for the Fall semester, according to Pat Merrill, student director of publications. They are: Copy editor, make-up editor, exchange editor, and photographer.

Openings on the business staff includes: Assistant business manager, advertising manager, assistant advertising manager, publicity director, and bookkeeper.

Several advertising salesmen are needed on the business staff, according to Miss Merrill.

All students interested in any of the above positions should attend the publications staff meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 12:30, in the Golden Gater office, Hut 4-B.

Entering Freshmen To Get First Dose Of New Curriculum

The general education program which will begin this semester, is the result of a two-year survey by the entire faculty.

Eight hundred incoming freshmen will be enrolled in the program. The general education plan was adopted because the faculty felt that the conventional studies in the lower division had not helped to adapt students to the needs of modern life.

The design of the plan is as follows:

1. Provide each student with counseling and guidance services for personal, social and vocational problems. An attempt will be made to discover vocational interests and abilities and help students select appropriate life careers by the end of their sophomore year.

2. Give them an understanding of democracy, social institutions and world affairs.

3. Develop recreational skills in arts, music, games and drama, which will be useful throughout life.

4. Provide them with the basic skills of writing, speaking and the solution of problems.

5. Help them to establish a satisfactory philosophy of life.

A feature of this Fall's enlarged program will be the training of recreational leaders for group work, administrative positions in public and private recreation agencies.

Sales Drive For SB Cards

"We've got to sell a minimum of 2000 student body cards this Fall to have any activities program at all," Charles A. Roumasset, administrator of student affairs, told the Board of Directors last Tuesday.

Mapping plans for an accelerated sales campaign, Hank Marscheck, student body treasurer, told the board, "I think we have a lot more to offer students this semester than in the past, but we've got to convince all the students that these cards are of benefit to them."

Student body card holders are entitled to free admissions to four night football games, five basketball games, two student body dances, free subscription to the Golden Gater, reduced rates on drama productions and work shop plays, health service, including x-rays and hospital care, cafeteria rebates from purchase of script books and free post box. Non-student body card holders will be charged 50 cents for post boxes.

In addition, participation in organized sports, membership in campus clubs and service organizations are open only to student body card holders.

Cards will be on sale at $8 each today and tomorrow in the registration lines for old and new students.

Progress of sales this term will be indicated on the thermometer near the student lounge till the end of the campaign.

Annual Plans Shelved Temporarily By Board

Plans for a 1949 Franciscan were shelved temporarily this week when the Board of Directors withheld decision on initiating yearbook preparation till a wider student opinion on the subject could be obtained.

After a vigorous sales campaign last semester only 800 Franciscans were sold, Pat Merrill, ex-yearbook editor told the board.

"Interest in a yearbook, normally stemming from the students, seems to be lacking," she said.

"If there is going to be a 1949 Franciscan," Miss Merrill continued, "an editor and staff should be appointed and theme plans should be initiated as quickly as possible."

George Allen, member-at-large, suggested the Golden Anniversary of the college and the Discovery of Gold Centennial as themes for the 1949 book.

The board considered briefly a suggestion that a senior class handbook be substituted for a full scale edition of the Franciscan. This was thought by some members to be a matter under jurisdiction of the senior class.

New Philosophy Course

Jordan Churchill, for two years a teacher at Columbia University, will conduct a course in contemporary philosophy at State this Fall. The course will be designated as Philosophy 160.

40 New Faculty Members Grace the Campus

GATER POLICY DEFINED

At the beginning of each semester the new staff of the Golden Gater defines a policy it will follow during its term of office. In doing this the staff considers major issues at hand in relation to the Golden Gater as an organ of Associated Students and the position of State as an up-and-coming institution.

This term the following policy has been evolved. Much of it is continuation of that spirit engendered in the Gater by previous staffs. It is published herewith for the information of the readers.

As the only line of communication between the student government and the students, the Golden Gater will maintain at all times high standards of accuracy, adequacy and objectivity in its reporting. It will reflect the opinions of students and inform them of the activities of the student government.

Though the Golden Gater is subsidized entirely by funds from Associated Students, it will exercise the right to criticize actions and policies of that group when it is found to act not in the interest of ALL the students.

In accordance with an editorial policy governing all student publications at State, the Golden Gater will confine its critical comments to issues rather than personalities, "except as those personalities are incidental to the issue." It will publicize those public issues directly concerning the college.

Every stand taken by the Golden Gater will be explained in all its aspects to the readers.

At all times the Letters-to-the-Editors column will be available for those comments and opinions of the readers, provided such letters be within the bounds of reasonable taste and accuracy.

The Golden Gater will endeavor, whenever possible, to raise the prestige of Associated Students and the college as a whole.

Good News For Freshmen at State

To the graduating class of '52:

YOU WILL GRADUATE FROM THE NEW 93-ACRE LAKE MERCED CAMPUS !

Here are the facts we have mustered to support this statement.

1) The State Board of Public Works has approved appropriations totaling $2,810,000 for construction of four buildings. Work on these buildings is to start within 60 days.

2) The board also has approved "preparation of plans" for four more campus structures, to cost approximately $2,200,000. All construction plans call for the completion of State's streamlined educational plant by 1951.

3) Arc lights already have been erected at the football bowl and are ready for the opening night game of the season with Whittier on Friday, October 1.

This is of paramount interest to those who long have gazed at the signboard out at 19th Avenue, entitled "The future home of San Francisco State College." Too long they have seen those before and after them on the verge of packing their belongings—ready to move to the 19th Avenue site, only to be turned back by the many complications and squabbles that have arisen at every turn.

They remember the demonstration in front of College Hall in the mid-30's, condemning the building as a "fire trap." They have heard each incoming class told the same story, "You will graduate from the new campus."

After a continuous flow of setbacks such as those, one can't blame the incredulous for their "seeing-is-believing" attitude. At long last it appears the "truth" finally can be told to an incoming group of freshmen.

YOU WILL GRADUATE FROM THE NEW 93-ACRE LAKE MERCED CAMPUS.

(We say it, however, with crossed fingers.)

Cafeteria Purchase Plan Proposed

The new seating plan in the cafeteria raises two important questions: (1) Will it really increase the seats available for lunch-buyers? and (2) What will be the fate of lunch-bringers on cold and rainy days?

Many students augment the lunches they bring from home with pie and coffee. Together these items amount to a few cents more than the minimum required under the new plan. Those who haven't made a purchase in the past may feel that a seat in the cafe on a cold or rainy day is worth 20 cents. In the long run, human comfort seeking of this sort may well throw the entire plan out of kelter.

Would it be possible to raise the minimum to the amount of a complete lunch? In that way all lunch buyers will be assured of finding a seat in the cafeteria.

Under the plan as it now stands, lunch bringers who buy a beverage only, may stand at the cafeteria fountain or may go to the student lounge, where they may or may not find a seat. On rainy days even the fresh air fiends will seek shelter indoors, and congestion in the cafeteria and the student lounge will be at a maximum.

It is hoped by the time the rainy season begins, Associated Students will have acquired another hut or suitable facilities with which to supplement the lounge for the benefit of those students who bring their lunches.

ORIENTATION

Are You Lost--Yet? Here's Where, Why

If you don't know your way around the college, newcomers, it would behoove you to read this script. Just so you won't get lost or be late for class, or in case you're wondering what a cinch notice is, and how to get one, here is your lesson in orientation:

First item concerns the library, which is located on the College Hall bottom floor. We mean rock bottom, so please don't confuse the mezzanine for the basement.

Consciencious students are invited to visit the library, where a wide variety of books may be taken out upon presentation of a library card, with the understanding that same are to be returned within the allotted time, usually one week. Unallotted time will be taxed accordingly.

When visiting the library you are asked to refrain from loud talk, as it disturbs the profound concentration of the conscientious. A display of verbosity has frequently been known to suffer counter attack by way of spitballs—yes!

The reserved book room is to be found on the top floor of College Hall, Room 216. A book from this compartment may be taken out for an hour at a time, since there is usually a long waiting list. "Forever Amber," by the way, is not in stock, and neither is the "Kinsey Report," so please don't insist.

Three rest rooms are available on the campus for men, each one ideally located within fast walking distance of any spot on the campus. One sanctuary is found in the Men's Training Quarters, another on the lower floor of Anderson Hall, and the other at the foot of the library stairs, near the Annexes.

While at State, many of you will attend church. Due to the housing shortage and the overcrowded conditions of the college, some classes are held at the First Baptist, Westminster and Methodist churches. You are hereby asked not to cut classes at these intramurals as there will be no collection plates.

Some of you may find yourselves going to grammar school again. The housing shortage also has made it necessary to accommodate some classes at John Muir. Please don't be alarmed, however, as you will receive college credits.

A picturesque hut, below the Girls' Gym (the Boys' Gym is still on the blueprint) serves as the Snack Bar. This rendezvous features coffee, sandwiches, Coca Cola and sedate language. Only the latter is free.

Last item concerns cinch notices. A cinch notice is that which is dispatched by teacher to student indicating his wish that the recipient get on the ball.

The sour notes are placed on the mail boxes following midterms. Should you be one of the selected, you had better get off the Great Comics and concentrate on your lessons.

And don't plead, beg or cry in the instructor's Pabst. Christmas is three months off—maybe then.

College Granted More Acreage

On the right is a map of the future home of the San Francisco State College, which, it is hoped, will be finished by 1951.

The shaded area represents the 36.83 acres that were recently granted the college. Area No. 8 will be transferred from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Areas No. 5 and 6 will come from the City and County of San Francisco.

Area 3 will come from the Stoneson Company and Area 4 from the Standard Building Company. All told, State now has 93 acres to its credit. The college as it is now envisioned will cost $12,500,000.

State Has Hectic History; New Campus On Its Way

By JOE HEATH

For nearly two decades State College has been on the verge of shifting its home from its present sunny, but crowded location to acre-studded, but foggy Lake Merced.

The movement originally was drafted because State Normal, as it was labeled in earlier days, was designed to house only 500 students. However, an overflow enrollment during the 30's era made it "impossible" to continue proper teaching techniques under crowded conditions. Thus, a new campus, which was to accommodate 3500 students, was designed.

Along came the 1940's, and with it Pearl Harbor. Construction plans for the new educational plant were stymied. Ending of the war, however, brought on further complications. The post-war enrollment exceeded the anticipated 3500 figure. The influx of students in the last two hectic years was so great, measures had to be taken to prevent the college from becoming another "Grand Central Station." Enrollment was limited at last—and even at that to a figure well beyond the "bursting point." It was reported that scores of men and women seeking admission were turned down. (It is said that approximately 700 students were turned back this Fall.)

With the Lake Merced campus becoming more of a mirage each day, the college started an expansion program on its own campus. Five huts were constructed by the Spring of '47—three to be used as classrooms, one to be used as a combination Associated Students Business office and Golden Gater office, the other to be used as a Student Lounge and Snack Bar.

Hence, began the crusade for more land—enough land to house at least 6000 students comfortably. Naturally, it wasn't easy. It had taken nearly two decades to borrow a cliche, slowly but surely.

Now, perhaps the biggest obstacle confronted the little college on the hill. In order to receive additional acreage, administration, faculty and student forces had to spar with supervisors, real estate men and others. Finally, all parties concerned agreed to compromise. State Board of Public Works gave the college the green light—the 36.83 acres being added to the original 56. Appropriations totaling $2,810,000 were granted the college.

As the situation now stands, State College has approximately 93 acres, arc lights under construction at the football bowl, building plans ready for three buildings and a power plant, and an optimistic feeling that by 1951 San Francisco State College finally will have its new home.

BOILER ROOM

BLOW YOUR TOP HERE

This space is usually reserved for criticism submitted by members of the Associated Students, and it will continue to serve as such in future publications.

However, taking advantage of the fact that no verbal slashings have been submitted, Old Betsy is starting things off by blowing a bit of steam herself.

The blow-off comes in the form of a crusade which concerns THE most important issue of the year—voting.

As you no doubt are informed, in order to cast a ballot it is necessary that you be a registered voter in the city where you reside. September 23 has been selected as the closing day for registration.

The requisites for a voter are that the person be 21 years of age, a resident of the state for one year and of the county for 90 days.

If you are one who meets these requirements, in the name of democracy, we urge you to exercise your greatest right — TO VOTE!

REBELLION: There will be no more horrors for Boris, if he has any say in the matter. Our favorite creep has declared his intentions of retiring from Frankenstein and other hideous roles to devote his time to character parts. Rumors were that he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown, brought about by his being addressed by the kids, to wit: "Look, there goes the monster!" So, kiddies, looks like from here on you'll have to take your Karloff in suave doses, which at that, is better than Van Johnson in corsets . . . or is it just gossip?

SOUTHERN EXPOSURE: The two "peaches" from Georgia finally settled the issue at the polls. Elected official governor was Herman Talmadge, who won by a landslide. At that, it took more than a year to determine which of the peaches was rotten.

WILL IT HAPPEN HERE? Target for tonight: Henry Wallace!

RACING FORM: Potato-sack-racing, the old festival sport, is due for a revival, we are informed. The handicap races will be run off in New Look skirts . . . same difference.

SING SING SING: Tin Pan Alley's latest discovery is one Rose "Chi-Chi" Murphy, whom they say can yodel on a par with Tarzan. Allegedly she is a cross between Bonnie Baker and the Tobacco Auctioneer, and the wierdest thing since Richard opened the door.

ISSUE OF THE WEEK: Will Citation continue to make records—in spite of Petrillo?

PHENOMENON: Ripley missed it but we snagged it. A 78-year-old woman claims to have given birth to a child recently, just like that. One physician corroborated her claim, but the majority remain skeptical. If true, however, this is prabably the greatest phenomenon since little Mary had a lamb.

SPORTS BEAT

Coach Dick Boyle's backfield is unique this season in that three-fourths of it is composed of former George Washington High School lads. The trio consists of Pete Desalernos, Morry Flynn and Morry Davis. Desalernos was honored twice on the all-city eleven while cavorting for the fogbelt institution as a teeth-rattling guard on defense and a line-smashing fullback on offense.

Paradoxically enough, the fourth member of the quartet, halfback Barney Greenberg, did his prepping at Lincoln High School, Washington's deadliest rival, where he was a standout in both football and basketball. As a matter of fact, all four backs doubled in brass as cage stars in high school, which could make for some flossy ball handling when the foursome takes over on offense.

Another curious item found in the list of backfield candidates is the fact that there are two brother acts, the Lowarts, Earl and Don, and the De Gregorios, Mike and John. The former pair also are products of George Washington.

* * * * *

State's colorful baseball manager, garrulous Al Gabriel, is branching out this term, extending his managerial talents to the football squad. If the "Gabe" can incorporate usage of his taunting tonsils into the gridiron sport as well as he did last Spring in baseball, we can look for the tide of battle to swing to the Purple and Gold when action is directed toward the State bench. When the peppery manager cuts loose with the verbal pyrotechnics, he is all but capable of rattling the statues in Golden Gate Park.

* * * * *

One of the vital injections that has given the current edition of the San Francisco 49ers a new lease on life in the All-American Conference is the acquisition of fullback Joe Perry, a name that brings back unpleasant memories to veterans of State's 1947 grid aggregation. The supercharged Perry helped win his way into the play for pay ranks last season by sparking his Alameda Naval Air Station eleven to a 34-0 landslide over the Golden Tide. Incidentally, ex-Golden Gater sports editor Ed Levitt scooped the city in reporting that the local professional outfit was interested in the service flash.

* * * * *

Although the college baseball season is too distant to merit much discussion, it should be noted that several of State's top diamond stars have been staying sharp for the next FWC flag race by playing Sunday ball for local sandlot nines.

Included in the group are Tom Gaffney, Herb Bill, Ray Enjaian and the Keropian brothers. Mike and Bob. Young Bob shows promise of a brilliant athletic future at State, already having annexed the conference broad jump title in his first year at Buchanan Heights.

Although slight in stature, he also has distinguished himself in jayvee football and basketball. In the diamond sport, the younger Keropian need only develop bat prowess on a level with his fielding ability and speed afoot to become one of State's all-time baseball stars.

New Faces In State Football Line-up

State's battling footballers will be out to avenge a 13-0 defeat at the hands of Whittier College, when they raise the curtain on their 1948 football season against the Poets, under the new campus arc lights October 1.

On paper, the two teams appear evenly matched for the season opener, with the Tidemen having a great chance for revenge if they can pick up where they left off last season, a 13-7 thriller which they barely lost to heavily favored Southern Oregon, last year's Far Western Conference kingpins.

The game will mean a lot to both Coach Dick Boyle of the Purple and Gold and Wallace Newman of Whittier, for both teams have been nominated by football soothsayers for doormat roles in their respective conferences, the Far Western and the Southern California Athletic Association. If Boyle can rebuild a riddled forward wall that will give adequate support to his capable backfield of experienced veterans, the Gators may gather up more than their allotted share of marbles in FWC competition.

Guard Jack Root is the sole regular returning from last season's line, with the exception of end Amos Adkins, who has been moved to the fullback slot to bolster what looks like an improved backfield. Root's rugged line play earned him a place on the second all-conference team last year, while Adkins is a veteran of the 1946 Sugar Bowl classic, holding down a flank for St. Mary's Coach, Jimmy Phelan, against Bob Fennimore and the Oklahoma Aggies.

Biggest question mark in the latest Boyle machine lies at the tackle slots, where untried performers must come through. Leading aspirants for the position are 210-pound Paul Hungerford Jr., son of the ex-Poly high coach, and Walt "Poodles" Pudlowski, returning to the fold after a year's absence. Depth is provided by Leon Del Grande, Cliff Gray and Bob Barisone, holdovers from last season's shock troops.

With the departure of Adkins from the end corps, Ray Bell and Tony Matulich loom as potential starters at the wings, backed by Don Chabot and Art Chaboya. Both Bell and Matulich are solidly built, experienced performers who like the going.

The guard posts should be up to last year's par with Root and Joe Brajkovich being crowded for starting honors by Wilbur Myers, Richard Peters and Isadore Biess. Heft is supplied at the pivot slot by Tony Morrow and Duane Mattison, the latter a transfer from the University of Nebraska. Both lads carry 200 pounds on 5' 11" frames.

The backfield situation looks much brighter to the Gator mentor than the forward wall, with the availability of a versatile set of backs. The starting quartet probably will be composed of Morry "Bud" Davis at quarter, Pete Desalernos at full, Morry Flynn at right half and Barney Greenberg lugging the mail from the tailback position.

Most promising of the new backfield crop, according to "Smiley" Boyle, is Don Lowart, a halfback fresh from Washington High School. Lowart may be the finest passer State has seen since illustrious Chad Reade, says Boyle. The return of Charlie Parish, fleet-footeed back from the 1946 eleven, gives added strength to the fullback berth.

Boyle has a terrific job on his hands in keeping apace with the rest of the conference teams, all of whom are considered on the upgrade. At present, the ex-St. Mary's flash is assuming a pessimistic outlook for the coming campaign. But the memory of that Southern Oregon tilt last season causes us to wonder if he's just playing possum.

Athletic Program Second Highest In Nation: Dean Cox

San Francisco State College draws some of the nation's outstanding athletes from every field of endeavor, yet because of intercollegiate eligibility rules is unable to use them. In the past athletes such as All-American basketballer Jim Pollard, footballer Jess Freitas, Vic Ramus and John Kuzman, and woman swimmer Joyce McRae have come to State to earn secondary teaching credentials after they have competed and made names for themselves in various universities.

Why do they choose State for their graduate work?

The answer, according to Dean David Cox, director of State's athletic program, is that this college ranks second only to Columbia University of New York for an all-around physical education program.

HEAVY MURAL ACTIVITY

Cox stated that no less than 500 athletes participate in intercollegiate sports annually, and approximately 90 per cent of the men students take part in the intramural programs.

Since 1946, State has offered intramural as well as intercollegiate competition in every sport. Cox added that each activity is treated on equal terms with no sport rated as minor.

State was voted into the Far Western Conference in the Spring of 1947, with Southern Oregon College, Humboldt State, Chico State and the Cal Aggies forming the rest of the loop.

The locals made an auspicious debut during that early season when they made a clean sweep of Spring sports, copping the baseball, track, tennis, swimming and golf crowns. The Gators repeated this Spring in tennis.

CAGERS CLEAN UP

Long noted as a basketball school, State has done well against its conference cage foes, annexing one first and one second place in two seasons of FWC action. Football has been a different story, with Coach Dick Boyle's eleven occupying the loop basement last Fall. However, the affable grid tutor is looking forward to better years on the football field for the Tide when the college moves to the new campus site.

Promise for better things on the gridiron is found in the sound junior varsity system which is being developed under Coach Bill Harkness. He estimates that close to 80 jayvees will be seeing action this season. State's football varsity may be down at the present, but it is far from out.

Jayvee Turnout Pleases Harkness

Greeted by 50 jayvee football candidates at the opening practicing session, Coach Bill Harkness looks forward to a highly successful season for the Baby Gators. Seventy-five aspirants signed up for the squad and each workout has shown an increase from the original turnout.

The purpose of the junior varsity, which is to season men for varsity competition, has been well justified with such promising performers as Bob Kroekel, Don Lowart, Glen Fisk and Don Chabot, among others, stepping up to the varsity this Fall from last year's jayvee ranks.

Harkness is guaranteeing plenty of action for all squad members, with a full slate of 15 games in the offering for his charges. The top two units will hook up with Junior College reserve elevens, while the rest of the squad will all see action against various high school teams.

Moraga Immortal Leads Tide Eleven

Coach Dick Boyle, the "Blue Ghost" of St. Mary's famous backfield in 1929, will start his second year as football coach at San Francisco State College since his discharge from the Navy.

During his varsity play with the Gaels, Boyle was selected on several All-American elevens and was hailed as one of "the most dangerous back in California."

After graduating in 1931, he married and began coaching the St. Mary's freshmen. He attended San Francisco State for two years to obtain his teaching degrees. From 1933 to 1938 he was coach and vice-principal at Orland High School. His football team won two championships in the North Coast League and was runner-up another season. The Orland basketball team earned three straight titles under his guidance.

Boyle received an M. S. at the University of Southern California.

Besides football, Boyle has coached tennis and swimming.

The "Blue Ghost" came to State as a P. E. instructor in 1938, and was appointed head football coach the following year.

SPORTS BREVITIES

Soft-spoken Jack Root, State's second team All-Far Western Conference guard, has learned some of his rugged line play from fields other than football. The stocky lineman spent over three years with the 101st Airborne Division. Paired with Joe Brajkovich, Coach Boyle rates his set of guards among the finest he ever has coached.

* * *

A last minute report shows Fullback Charlie Parish, who was counted on for heavy duty, declared ineligible because he was out of school last Spring. The loss is a blow to State fooball hopes, as Parish was an ace ground gainer on the 1946 eleven.

* * *

Former Stater Tom Brown, an in-and-out tennis player who at times has approached greatness in national competition, is entering the third round of the annual Forest Hills tournament today at New York. Experts often have said that if Brown concentrated on it, he could develop into one of the game's top players.

WAA Books Full Spring Schedule

With activities galore jampacking the Women's Athletic Association's calendar this year, State will begin its sophomore year in interschool competition.

Swimming, field hockey, badminton, tennis and volleyball dates have been scheduled with University of California, Stanford, Mills, San Jose State, Dominican and San Francisco City College.

A chaperon committee of Mrs. Florence Stephenson, head of women's physical education department; Mrs. Blanch Drury and Miss Dorothy Brett, P. E. instructors, will accompany team members.

Other sports offered by the association include ice-skating, bowling, coeducational folk and square dancing, social dancing and fencing.

At the conclusion of the semester women students who have participated in two sports are presented athletic awards at the Fall Spread Luncheon.

The Women's Athletic Association was organized for the purpose of furthering sporting events for women students. All women student body card holders are eligible to become members of the association.

Fraternity Book Distributed Free

Yearly project of Alpha Phi Gamma, the Student Handbook "Alligator," was distributed free to more than 500 freshmen Tuesday, according to Joe Heath, president of the organization.

The 24-page 8x11" book, edited by active members of the journalism fraternity, is divided into three sections—student officers and administration, facilities and services and organizations.

Serving as a guide to new students, the handbook gives detailed information of all activities pertaining to the college.

The cover, printed in yellow and black, was sketched by Jack Laycox and shows an aerial view of the campus. Numbers and a legend in the lower right hand corner indicate the principle buildings on campus and the streets surrounding the institution.

Fed Picnic Slated For September 27

One of the first social events of the season is scheduled by the Music Federation, largest organization on campus. Planned for Stern Grove, Sept. 27, the affair will be a combination picnic and mass meeting. Food, dancing, entertainment and the introduction of new officers are promised, according to Hal Graubart, Fed president.

Fed cards will be sold during registration. Membership is limited to 500.

Mimeographed sheets with information concerning the group will be distributed today and tomorrow. These will enable Fed members to participate in a drawing at the picnic. An album of records is the prize, Graubart announced.

Student Corporation Set-up Explained; 15 on Board

12 Students, Two Deans, One Faculty Form Group

Associated Students of San Francisco State College is a corporation comprised of all students at college holding student body cards.

Backbone of the corporation is the Board of Directors, headed by Earl Homan, student body president, which formulates many new measures of student government and affairs. Composed of the student body officers, seven members at large and three faculty members, the board exercises the power to veto or approve all transactions of the student body.

Under the jurisdiction of the board are two subordinate groups, the Board of Control, under the direction of Hank Marscheck, student body treasurer, and the Store Council, headed by Al Gabriel, student body secretary. Three other councils to be reactivated this semester, include the Athletic Council, the Activities Council and the Welfare Council.

The Board of Control is responsible for all financial transactions of the Associated Students and all campus organizations. It also makes recommendations regarding the employment or dismissal of all State employees to the Board of Directors.

Rules and regulations governing the Book Store and Cafeteria are made through the jurisdiction of the Store Council.

Students working with Homan this semester include Phil Ryan, activities commissioner, and George Allen, Don Meagher, Toni Robinson, Arthur Mayhew, Bob Seymour and Virginia Cox, members-at-large. Faculty representatives include Deans Mary A. Ward and John H. Cornhelsen, Jr., and Theodore Treutlein, associate professor of history.

According to Dr. Lindgren, schedules of William Olson and W. C. Harrelson, training officer for disabled veterans, will be announced later.

Reviewing activities of the center from September, 1947, to June, 1948, Lindgren stated 576 veterans and 40 non-veterans were counseled, and a total of 1395 interviews and 2480 tests were given. During Summer 110 veterans were interviewed. These figures constitute a substantial increase over previous periods.

Vocational counseling for non-veteran students can be secured under special arrangements. Those interested should see Dr. Lindgren.

Gamma Sigma Pi to Meet
